3 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 363.06[1] (15th rev. ed. 2008).....	27
--	----

TO THE HONORABLE ROBERT E. GERBER,
UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

General Motors Corporation (“GM”) and its affiliated debtors (collectively, the “Debtors”), respectfully represent:

Introduction

1. On June 1, 2009, the Debtors filed the motion (the “Motion”), requesting, inter alia, an order (the “Sale Order”), pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105, 363(b), (f), and (m), and 365 and Fed. R. Bankr. P. 6004 and 6006, authorizing and approving (i) the sale of substantially all of the Debtors’ assets pursuant to a proposed Master Sale and Purchase Agreement and related agreements (the “MPA”) among the Debtors (the “Sellers”) and Vehicle Acquisition Holdings LLC (the “Purchaser”), a purchaser sponsored by the United States Department of the Treasury (the “U.S. Treasury”), free and clear of liens, claims, encumbrances, and other interests, including any successor liabilities (the “363 Transaction”), (ii) the assumption and assignment of certain executory contracts and unexpired leases of personal property and of nonresidential real property (collectively, the “Leases”), and (iii) the approval of the UAW Retiree Settlement Agreement, subject to higher or better offers.

2. These chapter 11 cases and the Motion were initiated because there was no viable alternative to preserve and maximize the going concern value of the GM business and also preserve the largest part of the domestic automotive industry and the hundreds of thousands of jobs and countless suppliers and other businesses that depend on an ongoing viable GM business.

3. Although several hundred responsive pleadings to the Motion have been filed, there is a consistent and overwhelming theme -- not one party seriously suggests (much less points to a single fact suggesting) that the 363 Transaction not be consummated or that there is any viable alternative transaction, purchaser, or financing source outside of the 363

Transaction:

- No party has questioned that the alternative to the 363 Transaction is liquidation – or presented any facts to controvert the Debtors’ showing that in liquidation -- the unsecured creditors would receive no recovery;
- No party has questioned the draconian consequences to employees, suppliers, dealers, communities, and the overall U.S. economy if the 363 Transaction is not consummated;
- Virtually no dealers have objected and, in fact, in excess of 95% of all dealers have agreed to new ongoing participation or wind-down agreements to be assumed by the Purchaser;
- No party or person has expressed an interest or proposed a higher or better offer or any other financing proposal.

4. Indeed, the responsive pleading filed by the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Creditors’ Committee”) (Docket No. 2362), speaking for a broad cross-section of the unsecured creditor body, including unionized employees, suppliers, dealers, tort claimants, and bondholders, the claimant group most affected by the chapter 11 cases appropriately stated that: it is “satisfied that no viable alternative [to the 363 Transaction] exists to prevent the far worse harm that would flow from the liquidation of GM;” the “current transaction is the only option on the table”; and the 363 Transaction “serves the core purposes of the Bankruptcy Code and constitutes a strong business justification under section 363 of the Code to sell the debtors’ assets outside of a plan process.”

5. Moreover, as demonstrated by both the initial and the Supplemental Affidavit of Frederick A. Henderson Pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 1007-2 (Docket Nos. 21 and 2479), time is of the essence and, in fact, the need for speed has intensified. The emergence of a New GM is a significant part of the effort to persuade and encourage consumers to purchase

GM products, and consummation of the 363 Transaction is essential to alleviate the stress on GM's supplier and dealer network and the obvious systemic risks attendant thereto.

6. The objections to the Motion may be placed into four principal categories (exclusive of cure objections) and, as stated, they do not challenge the necessity to consummate the 363 Transaction but rather, simply seek to extract more money from the Purchaser. These four categories are:

- Dealer contract issues;
- Claims of successor liability issues;
- Demands for additional and increased retiree benefits for retired hourly employees to be paid by the Purchaser; and
- Whether the 363 Transaction constitutes a sub rosa plan.

7. The objections lack merit and should be overruled. First, the agreements with the dealers are in full compliance with applicable law, and neither the Debtors nor the Purchaser seek to strip the states of any cognizable rights they have with respect to such agreements.

8. Second, under well-settled authority, and as recently acknowledged by Judge Gonzalez in the Chrysler case, the provisions in the MPA and the proposed order approving the 363 Transaction relating to successor liability are appropriate in the circumstances and entirely consistent with section 363 of title 11, United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”). In addition, the Purchaser has agreed to assume all express warranty claims and all products liability claims arising subsequent to the closing of the 363 Transaction.

9. Third, the retired hourly employees cannot compel the Purchaser to either assume their existing benefits or to offer them more than the Purchaser is willing to pay for the assets. Notably, the Purchaser is not relegating the retirees to an unsecured claim against the estates: rather, it has offered them the same benefit proposal that is being made and will be implemented for GM's salaried retirees -- and four separate collective bargaining agents representing hourly retirees similar to those other hourly retirees who have filed objections to the 363 Transaction have accepted such proposal.

10. Finally, the 363 Transaction is not a sub rosa plan. In the Chrysler case, where precisely the same issue was raised under the same circumstances, it was soundly and clearly rejected. The same conclusion is warranted here because the 363 Transaction simply does not allocate or distribute any of the sale proceeds, nor does it otherwise dictate the terms of a plan. The 363 Transaction simply sells assets for consideration (including assumption of liabilities).

11. Manifestly, the 363 Transaction is not a plan disposition. Rather, it follows what has become the standardized structure for the many section 363 sales that have occurred and been approved.

12. The undisputed facts are clear. Prompt approval of the 363 Transaction is the only means to preserve and maximize enterprise value and provide a real and genuine opportunity for GM's business to survive and thrive as an economically viable entity. The only other alternative is prompt liquidation and the systemic failure and dire consequences that will inevitably unfold. The objecting parties, which seek to promote their own parochial economic interests in contrast to the interests of the greatest number of impaired stakeholders, should not be permitted to stop the necessary approval and consummation of the 363 Transaction.

The Objections

13. To date, approximately 750 written objections to the Motion or related aspects of the 363 Transaction (the "Objections"), have been filed with the Court or received by the Debtors.<sup>1</sup> These Objections fall into eleven general categories and are set forth in summaries annexed hereto as Exhibits “A” through “K”:

- (i) Objections filed by bondholders (“Bondholder Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “A”;
- (ii) Objections relating to state franchise law issues or objections by dealers (“Dealer-Related Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “B”;
- (iii) Objections relating to successor liability, tort, asbestos, environmental, and other products liability claims, including consumer protection issues (“Successor Liability and Consumer Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “C”;
- (iv) Objections filed by governmental agencies opposing specific plant closures (“Plant Closure Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “D”;
- (v) Objections filed by retirees or “splinter” union representatives of retirees (“Retiree/Splinter Union Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “E”;
- (vi) Objections relating to workers’ compensation issues (“Workers’ Compensation Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “F”;
- (vii) Objections relating to tax issues (“Tax Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “G”;
- (viii) Objections filed by holders of liens, including construction or mechanic’s liens (“Lien Creditor Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “H”;
- (ix) Objections filed by Stockholders (“Stockholder Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “I”;
- (x) Objections relating to assumption and assignment of contracts, including cure amounts (“Cure Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “J” and

<sup>1</sup> The Debtors intend to file an amended reply to address additional Objections that have been filed or received after the deadline to file objections to the Motion.

(xi) Miscellaneous objections (“Miscellaneous Objections”), a summary of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit “K.”

14. The Debtors are continuing to review the Objections and are discussing specific issues with a number of entities who have filed Objections. In addition, in order to resolve certain Objections, the proposed order approving the Motion (the “Sale Order”) will be modified and supplemented (the “Modified Sale Order”), which also should have the effect of resolving the number of outstanding Objections. The Modified Sale Order as well as a marked copy of the Sale Order showing the revisions will be submitted to the Court prior to the hearing to consider the Motion (the “Sale Hearing”).

15. For the reasons set forth below and in the Motion and the Debtors’ Memorandum of Law in Support of the Motion (the “Memorandum of Law” or “Debtors’ Mem.”), any Objections that may not be resolved by the beginning of the Sale Hearing should be overruled, the Motion should be granted, and the Modified Sale Order granted.

Specific Objections

Bondholder Objections

16. Most of the Objections filed by the Debtors’ bondholders are nothing more than emotional reactions to the reality that unsecured creditors of the Debtors will experience an economic loss as a result of the 363 Transaction. Although the Debtors are sympathetic to the economic circumstances facing bondholders, the Bondholder Objections present no legitimate challenge to the Motion.

17. The Unofficial Committee of Family & Dissident GM Bondholders (the “F&D Bondholders”)<sup>2</sup> (Docket No. 1969), Oliver Addison Parker (“Parker”) (Docket Nos.

<sup>2</sup> Note that as reflected by the Rule 2019 statements filed by the F&D Bondholders, many of such bondholders are speculators who purchased their respective bonds in the days preceding the Commencement Date for a price sometimes as low as $1.20 per $100 of face value.

2193 and 2194), and Radha R.M. Narumanchi (Docket No. 2357) (“Narumanchi,” and collectively with the F&D Bondholders and Parker, the “Minority Bondholder Objectors”),<sup>3</sup> challenge the 363 Transaction on the unsupportable grounds that, among other things, the 363 Transaction should have been implemented in the context of a chapter 11 plan of reorganization and is a disguised sub rosa plan of reorganization. These objections are without merit. The well-settled law is to the contrary, including, most recently Judge Arthur J. Gonzalez’s May 31, 2009 decision, In re Chrysler LLC, 405 B.R. 84 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2009), which was subsequently affirmed by the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit on June 5, 2009, “for substantially the reasons stated in the opinions of Bankruptcy Judge Gonzalez,” In re Chrysler, LLC, No. 09-2311-bk, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 12351, at *1 (2d Cir. June 5, 2009), approving the section 363 asset sale in Chrysler’s chapter 11 cases. The Chrysler decision addressed, and squarely rejected, the precise arguments the Minority Bondholder Objectors now proffer. Notably, the Minority Bondholder Objectors simply ignore the unassailable legal analysis and substantive findings in Chrysler. Such Objections also conspicuously ignore both the reality and consequences of the liquidation alternative.

18. An Expedited Asset Sale Outside of a Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization Is Appropriate Under These Exigent Circumstances. As discussed in the Motion and the Debtors’ Memorandum of Law, the overriding objective of a business reorganization is to preserve the value of a debtor’s assets as a going concern. See NLRB v. Bildisco & Bildisco, 465

<sup>3</sup> The F&D Bondholders purport to represent the interests of over 1,500 bondholders with bond holdings purportedly in excess of $400 million at face value. F&D Obj. at 1. On June 23, 2009, the Court denied the F&D Bondholders’ motion seeking appointment as an official committee, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1102(a)(2), finding that the F&D Bondholders did not establish a lack of adequate representation by the statutory committee appointed in these chapter 11 cases (the “Creditors’ Committee”). Parker purports to hold 200,000 “shares” of GM bonds with a face value of $5 million. Parker Obj. at 2. Narumanchi purports to own $400,000 worth of GM bonds (at par value). Narumanchi Obj. at 1. Other bondholders also challenge the 363 Transaction for substantially the same reasons, including, for example, Ronald and Sandra Davis (Docket No. 2137) and Lloyd A. Good (Docket No. 2025).

U.S. 513, 528 (1984); Debtors' Mem. at 3-4 (citing cases). Debtors in bankruptcy often have been permitted to sell substantially all their assets prior to the process of confirming a plan (including at the very early stages of a chapter 11 case), particularly where sufficient exigent circumstances (such as the erosion in value of assets over time) exist. See, e.g., Fla. Dep't of Revenue v. Piccadilly Cafeterias, Inc., 128 S. Ct. 2326, 2331 n.2 (2008); In re Brookfield Clothes, Inc., 31 B.R. 978, 986 (1983); Debtors' Mem. at 5. These cases are no different. Here, in the absence of any other financing, equity investment, strategic alliance, or other alternative to liquidation, the Debtors entered into the 363 Transaction and filed the Motion to preserve the going concern value of GM's business and maximize value to all economic stakeholders. Thus, the issue is whether, in the context of these chapter 11 cases involving a fragile business, there is a "business justification" or a "good business reason" for the sale of substantially all the Debtors' assets at this early stage. See In re Lionel Corp., 722 F.2d 1063, 1071 (2d Cir. 1983); Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 96; In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 2001 Bankr. LEXIS 980 (Bankr. D. Del. Apr. 2, 2001). As demonstrated in the Debtors' Motion, Memorandum of Law, and supporting affidavits and declarations, and in the submission made by the Creditors' Committee, the answer is a resounding "yes."

19. The undisputed record before the Court demonstrates that the 363 Transaction is the only viable means of preserving the value of GM's business enterprise and maximizing its going concern value. See, e.g., Affidavit of Frederick A. Henderson Pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 1007-2 ¶¶ 5, 14, 16, 19, dated June 1, 2009 (the "Henderson Affidavit" or "Henderson Aff."). There simply is no other option: The only alternative is liquidation. Id. All prior efforts by GM's management and financial advisors did not yield a single purchaser or strategic partner for GM's assets -- or even an entity willing to provide critical debtor in possession financing, except for the U.S. and Canadian Governments. Id. ¶ 14; Repko Decl. ¶¶ 24-29. But these entities have made it abundantly clear that they are willing to purchase substantially all of the Debtors' assets only in the context of an expedited 363 Transaction. The Minority Bondholder Objectors' ipse dixit, that the 363 Transaction is not necessary and that a traditional chapter 11 process should proceed, is totally without support. They set forth no facts - - nor can they -- to indicate that the Purchaser or any other entity is willing to proceed with either a transaction, debtor in possession financing, or any other element of the transaction outside of an expedited 363 asset sale, or that any other purchaser or financing source even exists.

20. Faced with a choice between (a) implementing the 363 Transaction within the parameters negotiated with the Purchaser -- thereby (i) preserving and maximizing the value of GM's business, (ii) saving hundreds of thousands of automotive-related jobs, and (iii) facilitating a distribution of the purchase price (including stock with an estimated value of $3.8 to $4.8 billion (see Declaration of J. Stephen Worth, dated May 31, 2009, at Ex. F., pg. 14 (Docket No. 425) (the "Worth Declaration" or "Worth Dec.")) and other assets to bondholders and other creditors through an eventual chapter 11 plan of liquidation, or (b) liquidating the Debtors' assets, which would provide no distribution to bondholders (see, e.g., Declaration of Albert Koch, dated May 31, 2009, at 7 (Docket No. 435) ("Koch Declaration" or "Koch Dec.")) -- the Debtors' Board of Directors patently exercised sound business judgment in proceeding with the 363 Transaction.

21. In the face of these factual realities and significant legal authority, the Minority Bondholder Objectors complain that the 363 Transaction should have been implemented in the context of a plan of reorganization. See, e.g., F&D Obj. ¶18. But this contention ignores the law and facts. As a matter of law, a 363 Transaction is permissible

(Debtors' Mem. at 3-4; Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 94), and the Minority Bondholder Objectors neither controvert the Debtors' authorities nor cite any contrary rule of law. As a matter of fact, the record demonstrates that the Purchaser – the only potential purchaser -- will walk away if the sale is not pursued in the context of an expedited 363 sale proceeding and approved by July 10, 2009. As discussed in detail in the Henderson Affidavit (Henderson Aff. ¶¶ 82-96) and the Supplemental Affidavit of Frederick A. Henderson Pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 1007-2, dated June 25, 2009 (the “Supplemental Henderson Affidavit” or “Supp. Henderson Aff.”) (Supp. Henderson Aff. ¶¶ 5-11), with each passing day, the economic viability of GM's suppliers and dealers becomes increasingly uncertain; indeed, many have already commenced bankruptcy cases, and many more will likely do the same in the near future unless the 363 Transaction is promptly consummated and New GM<sup>4</sup> begins operations. As such, notwithstanding the Minority Bondholder Objectors' conclusory assertions to the contrary, the Debtors simply do not have the luxury of waiting around for a nonexistent white knight to both finance a chapter 11 case and await the outcome of a prolonged chapter 11 case. The Minority Bondholder Objectors certainly identify no such financier or purchaser.

22. The 363 Transaction Is a Sale of Assets, Not a Sub Rosa Plan of Reorganization. While it is true that obstacles exist in obtaining Bankruptcy Court approval of a transaction that would amount to a sub rosa plan of reorganization -- i.e., a transaction that effectively dictates a distribution scheme and other terms only found in a plan of reorganization - - it is equally true that if an asset sale transaction contemplated by a debtor “has a proper business justification which has potential to lead toward confirmation of a plan and is not to evade the plan confirmation process, the transaction may be authorized.” Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 96 (citations omitted). In particular, a “debtor may sell substantially all of its assets as a going concern and later submit a plan of liquidation providing for the distribution of proceeds of the sale.” Id. That is precisely the situation here: The 363 Transaction is a value-preserving and value-maximizing transaction; the Debtors are receiving fair value for the assets being sold; and the sale in no way effects any distribution of the Debtors’ property to creditors, nor does it in any way impinge upon any chapter 11 plan that necessarily will follow.

<sup>4</sup> Capitalized terms not defined herein have the meaning ascribed thereto in the Motion or the Debtors' Memorandum of Law.

23. Specifically, as set forth in the Motion, the 363 Transaction, as contemplated by the MPA, meets all the traditional elements of a sale of assets under section 363(b), including arm’s-length negotiations between the buyer and seller for the assets that the Purchaser is willing to acquire and the Debtors are willing to sell (as well as liabilities and obligations that the Purchaser is willing to assume) so that the Purchaser could effectively continue GM’s business as a going concern. See, e.g., Debtors’ Mem. at 20. In exchange, the Debtors received consideration consisting of (i) cancellation of billions of dollars of secured debt, (ii) assumption by New GM of a portion of the Debtors’ businesses’ obligations and liabilities that must be satisfied to preserve the ongoing value of the business, and (iii) no less than 10% of the stock of the Purchaser (and warrants, as well) which the Debtors’ financial expert values between $3.8 and $4.8 billion. See Worth Decl. at Ex. F, pg. 14. As the unrebutted evidence of the Debtors’ valuation and liquidation experts make clear, that consideration is unquestionably the highest and best available, and the Debtors’ receipt of such consideration should allow for a distribution to the Debtors’ unsecured creditors, including the Minority Bondholder Objectors, in the context of a chapter 11 plan of liquidation. It is easily understood when considering the liquidation alternative why the ad hoc bondholder committee that appeared at the June 1, 2009 hearing strenuously supports the Motion.

24. The Minority Bondholder Objectors erroneously contend that the 363 Transaction constitutes an impermissible sub rosa plan because the “distributions to constituencies that would be approved in the section 363 sale would either not be part of any later plan, or would be predetermined such that they could not be distributed in a later plan process.” F&D Obj. at 12 (emphasis added). The Minority Bondholder Objectors further assert that “the Debtors specifically seek to obtain the benefits of the section 1129 confirmation process, through an accelerated section 363 transaction, while flatly ignoring the requirements and creditor protection of section 1129 of the Bankruptcy Code.” Parker Obj. at 20. They point to no provision of the MPA that would support their tortured interpretation of the 363 Transaction as dictating subsequent distributions of the Debtors’ assets. It is clear on the face of the 363 Transaction documents that there will be no distribution or allocation of estate assets or sale proceeds to any creditors under the 363 Transaction. The sale proceeds and remaining assets will be allocated and distributed only at a future date pursuant to a chapter 11 plan of liquidation.<sup>5</sup>

25. Specifically, the Minority Bondholder Objectors’ characterization that the ownership interests in New GM that the Purchaser has assigned to certain of the Debtors’ creditors upon consummation of the 363 Transaction reflect a distribution or allocation of estate

<sup>5</sup> Accordingly, the Minority Bondholder Objectors’ reliance on In re Braniff Airways, Inc., 700 F.2d 935, 940 (5th Cir. 1993) for the proposition that the 363 Transaction is an attempt to dictate the terms of reorganization because the 363 Transaction provides for the “distributions in respect of both the UAW claims and the general unsecured claims” (F&D Obj. at 9-10) is inapposite. See also Parker Obj. at 16. There is no distribution of estate assets in connection with the 363 Transaction. Equally unavailing is Parker’s reliance on In re Westpoint Stevens Inc., 333 B.R. 30 (S.D.N.Y. 2005), for the proposition that the Debtors “cannot use Section 363 to force the bondholders and other unsecured non-trade creditors to take a distribution in satisfaction of their claims that is disproportionately less than . . . claims that are of equal rank . . .” Parker Obj. at 20. As Judge Gonzalez recognized, the Westpoint Stevens case involved a situation where “the terms of the sale order allocated the sales proceeds between the first and second lien lenders, and directed that the distribution fully satisfied the underlying claims by terminating the lenders’ security interest in those claims, thereby usurping the role of the confirmation process.” Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 98. That simply is not the case here – and, contrary to Parker’s contention, there certainly is no distribution in connection with the 363 Transaction that “impairs the rights of a class of unsecured creditors in favor of another class of unsecured creditors of equal rank.” Parker Obj. at 18.

assets in violation of the absolute priority rule is simply false. The Purchaser -- not the Debtors - has determined New GM's ownership composition and capital structure outside of the bankruptcy context. The Minority Bondholder Objectors concede as much. See, e.g., F&D Obj. at 7 ("The Government will thereafter allocate the ownership of New GM . . .") (emphasis added); Parker Obj. at 15 ("The Debtors did not play any role in negotiating the capital structure of the Purchaser and did not decide what any of its stakeholders would receive as part of the transaction."). As part of that decision, New GM will assign ownership interests to certain of the Debtors' creditors in the belief that such transfer is necessary to conduct the acquired business. These obligations will be satisfied through allocation of New GM equity or assumption, including the UAW collective bargaining obligations and workers' compensation claims that must be satisfied to obtain beneficial self-insured status. In sum, the assignment of ownership interests is neither a distribution of estate assets nor an allocation of proceeds from the sale of the Debtors' assets. As Judge Gonzalez made clear, the "allocation of ownership interests in the new enterprise is irrelevant to the estates' economic interests." Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 99.

26. For example, the fact that the Purchaser has decided to allocate 17.5% of New GM's equity to the VEBA as consideration for entering into a new collective bargaining agreement with the UAW, in no way reflects any distribution or allocation of assets of the Debtors, let alone discrimination by the Debtors on account of prepetition claims. Rather, it is the product of a separately-negotiated agreement between New GM and the UAW. The consideration provided by New GM "in that exchange is not value that would otherwise inure to the benefit of the Debtors' estates." Id. at 100. Likewise, the value that the Debtors will receive if the 363 Transaction is approved (i.e., 10% of equity plus warrants), is the product of arm's-length negotiations between the Debtors and the Purchaser. Ultimately, the confirmation of a plan of liquidation will provide for the manner in which the distribution of the Debtors' assets, in accordance with the priority scheme of the Bankruptcy Code.<sup>6</sup>

27. Parker's Challenge to the Appropriateness of the U.S. Treasury Expending TARP Funds Lacks Any Legal Basis. In late 2008, Congress promulgated the Emergency Economic Stabilization Act of 2008 ("EESA"), Pub. L. No. 110-343, 122 Stat. 3765 (Oct. 3, 2008) (codified at 12 U.S.C. §§ 5201, et seq.), which established the Troubled Asset Relief Program ("TARP"). "TARP authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase troubled assets to restore confidence in the economy and stimulate the flow of credit." Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 82. As set forth in the Henderson Affidavit, beginning in December 2008, pursuant to a Loan and Security Agreement, dated December 31, 2009, GM borrowed approximately $13.4 billion under the TARP program to finance its operations. Thereafter, GM borrowed an additional $6 billion.

28. Parker further objects to the Motion on the ground that the "TARP funds are not available to fund the Debtors' reorganization" because Congress limited the scope of EESA to permit the Secretary to purchase troubled assets only from "financial institution[s]." Parker Obj. at 22, 24 (citing 12 U.S.C. § 5211(a)(1)). As a threshold matter, Parker lacks standing to raise the TARP issue, as he has suffered no injury as a result of the alleged violation. To the contrary, Parker will benefit directly from the alleged violation by likely receiving a distribution to which he would otherwise not be entitled.

29. Specifically, the issue of standing "involves both constitutional limitations on federal-court jurisdiction and prudential limitations on its exercise." Bennett v. Spear, 520 U.S. 154, 162 (1997). There are three elements to constitutional standing: (1) the plaintiff must have suffered an "injury in fact," which is actual or imminent, and that is a concrete and particularized invasion of a legally protected right; (2) there must be a causal connection between the injury and the conduct complained of; and (3) it must be likely, not merely speculative, that the injury will be redressed by a favorable decision. See Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560-61 (1992). These elements must be shown to satisfy the “case or controversy” requirement of Article III. See Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 82. In addition, there are judicially-proscribed prudential limitations to standing, one of which is “the plaintiff’s grievance must arguably fall within the zone of interests protected or regulated by the statutory provision or constitutional guarantee invoked in the suit.” Bennett, 520 U.S. at 162 (internal citations omitted).

30. Here, Parker lacks constitutional standing. Because “all unsecured claims are receiving no less than they would receive under a liquidation,” the Minority Bondholder Objectors have no injury in fact. Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 83. Moreover, even if Parker could demonstrate an injury in fact, the injury is not “causally connected” to the U.S. Government’s use of TARP funds. Specifically, “[i]f a non-governmental entity were providing the funding in this case, [Parker] would be alleging the same injury . . . . In this light, it is not the actions of the lender that [Parker is] challenging but rather the transaction itself. Specifically, [Parker’s] alleged injury is not fairly traceable to the U.S. Treasury’s actions because [Parker] would suffer the same injury regardless of the identity of the lender. “ Id.

31. Parker’s Miscellaneous Objections Equally Lack Merit. Parker asserts additional objections to the Motion, all of which should be summarily rejected.

32. First, Parker contends that “[w]hile the Debtors claim that liquidation would be disastrous for GM’s stakeholders . . . they offer no evidence that would support this claim.” Parker Obj. at 13. Not so. Parker completely ignores the liquidation analysis attached to the Koch Declaration, which sets forth in detail the recoveries to be expected by each class of creditor under a hypothetical liquidation scenario of the Debtors' assets.

33. Second, Parker claims that the Debtors "do not (and apparently cannot) state the expected value of the Purchaser after the completion of the proposed 363 'sale', the amount of debt the Purchaser can safely support, the expected value of the Purchaser's common stock being distributed under the 'sale' transaction . . ." Parker Obj. at 15. This argument is misguided for several reasons. First, issues such as the amount of debt that the Purchaser can safely support are wholly irrelevant. More importantly, Parker's claim that the Debtors do not state the expected value of the Purchaser's common stock to be paid to the Debtors under the 363 Transaction simply ignores the Worth Declaration and the fairness opinion and presentation to the GM Board of Directors annexed thereto as Exhibits A and F, respectively.

34. Third, Parker purports to undertake his own liquidation analysis of the Debtors' assets and liabilities and proclaims that, in a liquidation, "unsecured creditors could reasonably expect to receive 25 cents on the dollar while secured creditors are paid in full." Parker Obj. at 7. Putting aside the absence of any showing that he has any expertise in this area, his own analysis actually supports the Debtors. Specifically, central to his analysis, Parker repeatedly contends that the Debtors have approximately $30 billion of value in net operating losses that are available as a tax loss carry forward -- but he acknowledges that this loss carry forward only has value "to an acquiring corporation" that obtains at least 50% of the Debtors. Id. at 6. In the hands of the Debtors -- including in a liquidation -- it has no value to creditors. Moreover, Parker cannot identify any entity that has come forward to be that "acquiring corporation," even with the supposedly valuable tax loss as the prize. No such individual or entity exists.

35. Finally, in his amended Objection (Docket No. 2193), Parker contends that “[u]nder the limitations on liens provisions of the senior bondholders’ bonds, GM could not grant the Government a lien on virtually everything it owned without concurrently granting to its bondholders (like Parker) an identical lien on the same property securing the bond debt equally and ratably together with the debt of the Government . . . .” Parker Obj. at 9. Parker’s contention is flatly wrong.

36. There is no such sweeping restriction on liens in the indentures governing the bonds. Rather, the only restriction on liens is contained in Section 4.06 of such indentures. Section 4.06 provides only that [GM] will not, nor will it permit any Manufacturing Subsidiary to, issue or assume any Debt secured by a Mortgage upon any Principal Domestic Manufacturing Property of [GM] or any Manufacturing Subsidiary or upon any shares of stock or indebtedness of any Manufacturing Subsidiary . . . without in any such case effectively providing concurrently with the issuance or assumption of any such Debt that the Securities . . . shall be secured equally and ratably with such debt. . . .

Indentures Section 4.06.

37. The debt under the U.S. Treasury Loan Agreement is not secured by liens on any such assets. Of course, these assets became subject to the postpetition liens of the lenders under the debtor in possession financing facility.

38. Based on the foregoing, the Bondholder Objections, including those filed by the Minority Bondholder Objectors, should be overruled in their entirety.

Dealer-Related Objections

39. GM Must Restructure Its Uncompetitive, Legacy Dealer Network.

Through the 363 Transaction and related efforts, GM is in the process of restructuring all facets of its business. Central to these efforts are the changes currently underway with respect to GM’s uncompetitive, legacy dealer network, the cost of which is simply staggering: Because of insufficient throughput (or sales per dealership) and only marginal network-wide profitability, the Company spends more than $2 billion annually (for, among other things, wholesale floor plan support, standards for excellence programs, new vehicle inspection payments, free fuel fills, and other incentives paid directly to dealers). Although the proposed network reductions will not immediately save these costs in full, it will allow New GM to begin significant systematic cost reduction, as the retained dealers become stronger due to increased market opportunity and, thus, require decreased levels of support over time.<sup>7</sup>

40. Nevertheless, GM has addressed transition issues in a manner that is much more dealer-friendly than simply rejecting dealership agreements. That is, every GM dealer, whether it is being retained or not, has received an offer of very substantial consideration in the form of a Wind-Down or Participation Agreement, including: (i) in the case of non-retained dealers, a substantial monetary payment and the continuation of GM's indemnity obligations regarding future product liability; and (ii) in the case of retained dealers, the opportunity to continue in business pursuant to an agreement that will provide New GM with necessary flexibility going forward and the commitment of retained dealers to invest appropriately in their facilities in light of increased market opportunity -- while, importantly, otherwise changing very little of the contractual arrangements under which these dealers will continue to operate.<sup>8</sup>

<sup>7</sup> In specific terms, the dealer restructuring plan will reduce overall GM dealerships from slightly under 6,000 today to about 3,600 to 3,800 by the end of 2010, providing eventual structural cost savings of approximately $415 million per year, including reduced local advertising assistance, channel network alignment payments, sales and service consultant fees, dealer website funding, dealer support system costs, and dealer training programs.

<sup>8</sup> In addition, the Company established an appeal mechanism to reconsider dealer wind-downs, which, to date, has resulted in decisions to retain 64 of such dealers going forward.

41. Overview of the Dealer-Related Objections. The thrust of the Dealer-Related Objections, which were not filed by the dealers themselves but, rather, by governmental agencies, is that the Wind-Down and Participation Agreements signed by the Debtors' dealers conflict with, and effect an improper waiver of, such dealers' state franchise law protections. As explained below, however, because the Debtors -- as confirmed by Judge Gonzalez's recent Chrysler decision -- would have been well within their rights to simply reject their dealership agreements, there is nothing improper about the far less draconian alternatives presented by the Wind-Down and Participation Agreements (which, not surprisingly, have been all but unanimously accepted). See Henderson Supp. Aff. ¶¶ 10-11 (noting that nearly 100 percent of the dealers offered Wind-Down and Participation Agreements have accepted); see also Objection of the State of Texas, on behalf of the Texas Department of Transportation ("Texas Obj."), Exhibit B (Participation Agreement) at ¶ 9(f) (providing that the "[d]ealer acknowledges that its decisions and actions are entirely voluntary and free from any duress").

42. Outright Rejection of the Company's Dealership Agreements, While Far More Severe, Would Have Been Entirely Permissible Under Section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. The Supreme Court explained in NLRB v. Bildisco & Bildisco, 465 U.S. 513 (1984), that "the authority to reject an executory contract [under section 365] is vital to the basic purpose to a Chapter 11 reorganization, because rejection can release the debtor's estate from burdensome obligations that can impede a successful reorganization." Id. at 528. Thus, as Judge Gonzalez recently held in Chrysler, absent a showing of bad faith or abuse of discretion, the decision to reject is subject only to the debtor's business judgment -- regardless of whether that decision is the best (or even a good) one. In re Old Carco LLC, No. 09-50002, 2009 WL 1708813, at *1 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. June 19, 2009); see also In re Penn Traffic Co., 524 F.3d 373, 383 (2d Cir.

2008) (“That the debtor’s interests are paramount in the balance of control is underscored by the business judgment standard employed” under section 365); In re G Survivor Corp., 171 B.R. 755, 757 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1994) (“Generally, absent a showing of bad faith, or an abuse of discretion, the debtor’s business judgment will not be altered”) (citations omitted), aff’d sub nom. John Forsyth Co. v. G. Licensing, Inc., 187 B.R. 111 (S.D.N.Y. 1995); In re Chipwich, Inc., 54 B.R. 427, 430-31 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1985) (similar); see also In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 261 B.R. 103, 121-22 (Bankr. D. Del. 2001) (“[W]hether the debtor is making the best or even a good business decision is not a material issue of fact under the business judgment test”) (internal quotation omitted).

43. In recently approving Chrysler’s rejection of hundreds of dealership agreements, Judge Gonzalez confirmed that the traditional business judgment standard -- and not some heightened “public interest standard” or “balancing of the equities” test urged by various objectors -- applies to an OEM-debtor’s rejection of dealership agreements under section 365. Old Carco at *1-6. Judge Gonzalez explained that state franchise laws, by their express terms, do not justify imposition of a higher standard of section 365 review:

[W]hile the policies designed to protect the public interest may, in part, underlie the Dealer Statutes, those statutes have been enacted by state legislatures, not Congress, and by their very terms protect the public interest of their respective states rather than the national public interest. Further, the fundamental interests sought to be protected by these state legislatures are the economic interests of local businesses and customer convenience and costs. Although some Dealer Statutes articulate a public safety concern in such enactments, the public safety issues raised by the closing of dealerships do not create an imminent threat to health or safety.

Id. at *3 (citation omitted) (emphasis in original); see also id. at *4 n.8 (“[T]he Dealer Statutes have a limited connection to public safety. The vast majority of Dealer Statutes concern solely commercial issues affecting the dealers and their customers and communities. . . . Thus, the health and safety of the public are not threatened by rejection”) (citation omitted).

44. Moreover, after concluding that Chrysler’s rejection of dealership agreements constituted a valid exercise of business judgment, Judge Gonzalez found that the state franchise laws at issue, like those at issue here, frustrated the purposes of (and, thus, were preempted by) section 365. See generally id. at *11-17; see also id. at *16 (“Where a state law ‘unduly impede[s] the operation of federal bankruptcy policy, the state law [will] have to yield’”) (quoting In re City of Vallejo, 403 B.R. 72, 77 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2009)). As Judge Gonzalez explained:

Specifically and by no means exclusively, statutory notice periods of, e.g., 60 or 90 days before termination clearly frustrate § 365’s purpose to allow a debtor to reject a contract as soon as the debtor has the court’s permission (and there is no waiting period under the Bankruptcy Rules). Buy-back requirements also frustrate § 365’s purpose to free a debtor of obligations once the debtor has rejected the contract. Good cause hearings frustrate § 365’s purpose of giving a bankruptcy court the authority to determine whether a contract may be assumed or rejected. Strict limitations on grounds for nonperformance frustrate § 365’s purpose of allowing a debtor to exercise its business judgment and reject contracts when the debtor determines rejection benefits the estate. So-called “blocking rights,” which impose limitations on the power of automobile manufacturers to relocate dealers or establish new dealerships or modify existing dealerships over a dealer’s objection, frustrate § 365’s purpose of giving a debtor the power to decide which contracts it will assume and assign or reject by allowing other dealers to restrict that power.

Id. at *16; see also Vallejo, 403 B.R. at 77 (holding that “Congress enacted section 365 to provide debtors the authority to reject executory contracts. This authority preempts state law by virtue of the Supremacy Clause [and] the Bankruptcy Clause”) (internal citation omitted). Judge Gonzalez also made clear that 28 U.S.C. § 959(b), on which the Dealer-Related Objections largely rely, did not alter the Court’s “preemption analysis,” because that provision “does not de-limit the precise conditions on contract rejection” -- particularly where, as here, the pertinent state laws concern “consumer convenience and costs and the protection of local businesses, rather than a concern over public safety.” 2009 WL 1708813, at *14-15.<sup>9</sup>

45. Providing Dealers with More than Would Be Realizable from Rejection Claims Should Obviate the Objections Interposed by State Regulators. Based on the reasoning in Chrysler, and given that the Debtors, in the exercise of their business judgment, could have followed the rejection process, the proposed result here, i.e., the approval of agreements that offer the Company’s affected dealers significant consideration that would otherwise not be available, should be approved and authorized.

46. For example, through the Wind-Down Agreements, dealers will receive financial remuneration, including incentive payments, that will enable them to stay in business through the end of their current contracts (approximately 17 months) and to continue to sell existing new vehicle inventory in the ordinary course (rather than in a “fire sale”) and provide service and parts availability to their customers. In exchange, and instead of simply being put out of business immediately, these dealers will agree not to order additional inventory or protest future network modifications, to release certain claims (not including claims related to future normal course payment for business activities) and to waive termination assistance rights under their current contracts. In addition, under the Wind-Down Agreements, the indemnification provisions of article 17.4 of the dealership agreements will be assumed and assigned to New GM -- a further obligation that, in a rejection scenario, would fall squarely on the dealers’ shoulders.

<sup>9</sup> See also 2009 WL 1708813, at *15 (“In sum, the Dealer Statutes . . . are concerned with protecting economic or commercial interests and are thus preempted by the Bankruptcy Code notwithstanding 28 U.S.C. § 959(b)) (citing In re Baker & Drake, Inc., 35 F.3d 1348, 1353 (9th Cir. 1994)); id. at *16 n.32 (stating that “state law protections cannot be used to negate the Debtors’ rejection powers under § 365. . . . ‘The requirement that the debtor in possession continue to operate according to state law requirements imposed on the debtor in possession (i.e., § 959(b)) does not imply that its powers under the Code are subject to the state law protections’”) (quoting In re PSA, Inc., 335 B.R. 580, 587 (Bankr. D. Del. 2005) (emphasis in original)).

The Wind-Down Agreements therefore represent classic settlement agreements (routinely approved and enforced) to resolve any issue or dispute that otherwise would arise upon termination and that, while critical to the restructuring of GM's dealer network, are also intended and designed to avoid the harsh consequences of rejection.<sup>10</sup>

47. The same can be said even more strongly about the Participation Agreements -- through which retained dealers are offered a long-term alternative to rejection, although on slightly modified (but, nevertheless, relatively common) terms. In fact, those terms have only improved from the dealers' perspective since originally being offered, as the Debtors have worked closely with the National Automobile Dealers Association ("NADA") to further refine the retained dealers' arrangements through a letter amendment to the Participation Agreements. See Texas Obj., Exhibit C. This amendment provides additional clarity that (i) sales and inventory requirements will not be imposed unilaterally by GM; (ii) brand and model exclusivity requirements only will apply to the retained dealers' showrooms; (iii) retained dealers will continue to have the notice and procedural protections under their current contracts or state law with respect to claimed breaches; (iv) the waiver of protest rights will not apply to

In fact, a number of States -- including Alaska, Colorado, Louisiana, New York, and Virginia -- expressly carve out claim settlements from the universe of non-waivable provisions. See, e.g., Alaska Stat. § 45.25.130(b) ("This section does not prohibit a voluntary agreement between a manufacturer and a new motor vehicle dealer . . . to settle legitimate disputes"); Colo. Rev. Stat. § 12-6-120(1)(o) (a manufacturer cannot coerce a dealer's prospective assent to waiver "that would relieve any person of a duty or liability imposed under this article except in settlement of a bona fide dispute") (emphasis added); La. Rev. Stat. § 32.1261(1)(a)(iv) (manufacturer cannot coerce dealer to assent to a release or waiver "unless done in connection with a settlement agreement to resolve a matter pending a commission hearing or litigation. . . ."); N.Y. Veh. & Traf. Law § 463(2)(l) (prohibition on coercing dealer to assent to release or waiver "shall not be construed to prevent a franchised motor vehicle dealer from entering into a valid release or settlement agreement with a franchisor"); Va. Code Ann. § 46.2-1572.3 (non-waiver provision "shall not apply to good faith settlement of disputes, including disputes pertaining to contract negotiations, in which a waiver is granted in exchange for fair consideration in the form of a benefit conferred upon the dealer. . . .") (emphasis added).

circumstances in which GM seeks to increase the number of dealers in a given market;<sup>11</sup> and (v) matters outside the Participation Agreements will not be subject to this Court's exclusive jurisdiction.<sup>12</sup>

48. Indeed, the rationale behind these provisions (particularly the exclusivity and "no protest" provisions, which are the primary focus of the Dealer-Related Objections) is clear -- and entirely consistent with the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code. First, there can be no debate that New GM will benefit, both from a sales and brand focus/recognition perspective, from a dealer network comprised of showrooms of exclusively GM cars and trucks. Second, the retained dealers' limited waiver of their protest rights provides New GM with some flexibility to optimally construct and alter its dealer network in the future in the interests of enhancing the value of the Purchaser that will benefit the Sellers' creditors. But the Participation Agreements, as amended, preserve the retained dealers' right to protest franchise modifications within six miles and limit any protest right waivers to a period of only two years, provisions which are neither arbitrary nor unreasonable and have been voluntarily agreed to by the Company's dealers.

49. The bottom line is that these restructuring efforts make sense for all involved. Retained dealers will, again, enjoy enhanced market opportunities because of the smaller number of dealers, while the attendant reduction in GM's production and legacy costs will make GM products more competitive in the retail market. It is thus reasonable for GM to require that these dealers invest in exclusive and attractive facilities and temporarily forego certain protest rights so that a new dealer network can be appropriately configured at the outset. Indeed, it is an overall benefit to the dealers that GM be able to do so, including because dealer relocations may be necessary to leave out-of-date facilities behind or to re-establish operations in auto malls or similarly concentrated areas. Finally, it is no stretch for GM to require retained dealers (or, for that matter, winding down dealers) to execute a release in exchange for the substantial consideration being offered. After all, if GM could simply reject its dealership agreements (thus leaving dealers holding their unsecured claims) and then offer new agreements only to those dealers chosen by GM, then it surely is reasonable for GM to require a release in these circumstances.

<sup>11</sup> See, e.g., DaimlerChrysler Motors Co. v. Lew Williams, Inc., 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 233, 239 (Cal. Ct. App. 2006) (finding dealer's prospective waiver of protest rights valid and enforceable, as it "was the result of an arm's length voluntary transaction . . . for valuable consideration").

<sup>12</sup> Annexed hereto as Exhibit "L" is a statement by NADA confirming that it "has reviewed and supports GM's amendments to the Participation Letter Agreement" and stating its belief that "the revised document addresses the majority of dealer concerns." Per NADA chairman John McEleney: "I especially commend GM for its flexibility and its willingness to make substantive clarifications and modifications to address dealer concerns. We believe GM has made a very good faith effort, given the unprecedented circumstances facing GM and the industry."

Successor Liability and Consumer Objections

50. Various of the Objections relate to tort, asbestos, environmental, and other products liability claims and assert that the Debtors' assets may not be sold to the Purchaser free and clear of such claims, including, in particular, shielding the Purchaser from successor liability. Notably, in presenting these arguments, the objectors cite no controlling authority which supports their position and, instead, ask this Court to completely disregard applicable precedent and Judge Gonzalez's decision in In re Chrysler LLC, 405 B.R. 84 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2008), aff'd, No. 09-2311-bk, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 12351 (2d Cir. June 5, 2009). In Chrysler, Judge Gonzalez categorically rejected the precise contentions posited by the Successor Liability and Consumer Objections. Indeed, the attorneys for the Creditors' Committee, who served in a similar capacity in Chrysler's chapter 11 case, conspicuously fail to mention, much less confront, Judge Gonzalez's decision and the stated principle of this Court to assure consistency in the decisions and rulings made by Bankruptcy Judges in the Southern District of New York.

51. Section 363(f) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that a debtor in possession may sell property free and clear of any interest in such property ... only if

- (1) applicable nonbankruptcy law permits sale of such property free and clear of such interest;
- (2) such entity consents;
- (3) such interest is a lien and the price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property;
- (4) such interest is in bona fide dispute; or
- (5) such entity could be compelled, in a legal or equitable proceeding, to accept a money satisfaction of such interest.

11 U.S.C. § 363(f).

52. The reference in section 363(f) to the sale being free and clear of “any interest” has been interpreted to permit the sale of a debtor’s assets free and clear of claims, including successor liability claims. In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283, 288-90 (3d Cir. 2003) (“TWA”); Am. Living Sys. v. Bonapfel (In re All Am. of Ashburn, Inc.), 56 B.R. 186, 189-90 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1986) (sale pursuant to section 363(f) barred successor liability for product defects claim), aff’d, 805 F.2d 1515 (11th Cir. 1986); Rubinstein v. Alaska Pac. Consortium (In re New England Fish Co.), 19 B.R. 323, 328 (Bankr. W.D. Wash. 1982) (sale pursuant to section 363(f) was free and clear of successor liability claims for even statutorily protected rights against employment discrimination and civil rights violations). The leading treatise on bankruptcy supports this conclusion:

Section 363(f) permits the bankruptcy court to authorize a sale free of “any interest” that an entity has in property of the estate. Yet the Code does not define the concept of “interest,” of which the property may be sold free. Certainly a lien is a type of “interest” of which the property may be sold free and clear. This becomes apparent in reviewing section 363(f)(3), which provides for particular treatment when “such interest is a lien.” Obviously there must be situations in which the interest is something other than a lien; otherwise, section 363(f)(3) would not need to deal explicitly with the case in which the interest is a lien.

3 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 363.06[1] (15th rev. ed. 2008).

53. In TWA, the Third Circuit addressed the issue of whether the Bankruptcy Court properly extinguished the liability of a purchaser of a debtors’ business operations as a successor under section 363(f) as it related to, inter alia, employment discrimination claims. In affirming the ruling of the Bankruptcy Court, the Third Circuit expressly rejected the arguments made by the objectors here – that “interests” in property should be narrowly interpreted to mean in rem interests in property such as liens. This principle has been consistently followed as a standard provision in the numerous section 363 sales that have occurred since TWA without objection or judicial attacks, e.g., in the following chapter 11 cases, among others: In re Bearing Point, Inc., Ch. 11 Case No. 09-10691 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2009); In re Steve & Barry’s Manhattan LLC, Ch. 11 Case No. 08-12579 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2008); In re Lenox Sales, Inc., Ch. 11 Case No. 08-14679 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2008); In re Pilgrim’s Pride Corp., Ch. 11 Case No. 08-45664 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2008); In re Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc., Ch. 11 Case No. 08-13555 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2008); and In re The Sharper Image Corp., Ch. 11 Case No. 08-10322 (Bankr. D. Del. 2007).

54. Judge Gonzalez, in Chrysler, concurred with the principle expressed in TWA. The very same assertions that are argued here as to successor liability and the scope of section 363(f) in the context of tort and other claims were raised in opposition to Chrysler’s section 363 motion. In overruling those objections, Judge Gonzalez, relying on TWA, stated:

Some of these objectors argue that their claims are not “interests in property” such that the purchased assets can be sold free and clear of them. However, the leading case on this issue, In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 322 F.3d 283 (3d Cir 2003) (“TWA”), makes clear that such tort claims are interests in property such that they are extinguished by a free and clear sale under section 363(f)(5) and are therefore extinguished by the Sale Transaction. See id. at 289, 293. The Court follows TWA and overrules the objections premised on this argument. Even so, in personam claims, including any potential state successor or transferee liability claims against New Chrysler, as well as in rem interests, are encompassed by section 363(f) and are therefore extinguished by the Sale Transaction. See, e.g., In re White Motor Credit Corp., 75 B.R. 944, 949 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 1987); In re All Am. Of Ashburn, Inc., 56 B.R. 186, 190 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1986). The Court also overrules the objections premised on this argument.

55. Notably, the fact that so-called “future” tort claims may have been impacted by this ruling in Chrysler, did not warrant a different result:

Additionally, objections in this category touching upon notice and due process issues, particularly with respect to potential future tort claimants, are overruled as to those issues because, as discussed elsewhere in this Opinion, notice of the proposed sale was published in newspapers with very wide circulation. The Supreme Court has held that publication of notice in such newspapers provides sufficient notice to claimants “whose interests or whereabouts could not with due diligence be ascertain.” Mullane v. Cent. Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 317, 70 S.Ct. 652, 94 L.Ed. 865 (1950). Accordingly, as demonstrated by the objections themselves, the interests of tort claimants, including potential future tort claimants, have been presented to the Court, and the objections raised by or on behalf of such claimants are overruled.

The objectors have provided no basis to overrule Judge Gonzalez’s careful analysis of the issue that must be deemed to have been reviewed and accepted by the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. In re Chrysler, LLC, No. 09-2311-bk, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 12351 (2d Cir. June 5, 2009). Accordingly, the Successor Liability and Consumer Objections should be overruled.<sup>13</sup>

<sup>13</sup> With respect to objections raised as to environmental liabilities or obligations, a purchaser under section 363 has no obligation to assume environmental liabilities and, as set forth above, can purchase assets free and clear of such

56. Reliance by any objector on In re White Motor Credit Corp., 75 B.R. 944 (Bankr. N.D. Ohio 1987), to support the proposition that a Bankruptcy Court lacks the authority to order the sale of a debtor's assets free and clear of tort claims and successor liability is misplaced. Although the White Motor court did not find that tort claims were interests within the purview of section 363(f), the court nevertheless held that a "sale conducted through the court's equitable powers can provide the debtor the same degree of relief effected by a sale in a plan of reorganization and, therefore, can affect claims arising prior to confirmation." Id. at 949. Accordingly, the court found "the sale was free and clear of all Defendants' claims." Id.

57. Moreover, relying on the Supreme Court's decision in Perez v. Campbell, 402 U.S. 637 (1971), the White Motor Court indicated that, in the context of asset sales in bankruptcy, state successor liability statutes, rules, etc. are subject to federal preemption pursuant to the Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution, as applicable to the implementation of the provisions and objectives of the Bankruptcy Code. As a result, state successor liability laws must defer to achievement of the objectives and policies of the Bankruptcy Code.

58. The Objections interposed as to present and future asbestos claims, and the erroneous assertion that section 524(g) of the Bankruptcy Code is somehow applicable to a sale under section 363, do not compel a different result. As Judge Gonzalez again recognized in Chrysler, "section 524(g) is inapplicable to a free and clear sale under section 363(f) and the Sale Transaction does not contain releases of third parties." 405 B.R. at 112.

59. Additionally, this Court, in connection with its ruling on the Motion of the Ad Hoc Committee of Asbestos Personal Injury Claimants for an order directing the United liabilities, including successor liability. Of course, to the extent the Purchaser becomes the owner and operator of any purchased property, it will be responsible for environmental claims in respect of such property, and the 363 Transaction in no way seeks to shield the Purchaser from such liability.

States Trustee to appoint a committee of asbestos claimants and an order appointing a future asbestos claimants representative (the “Motion to Appoint Asbestos Committee and Future Claims Representative”) (Docket No. 478), clearly noted that section 524(g) was not applicable to these chapter 11 cases as there is no intent to seek a section 524(g) channeling injunction and no discharge will be granted in the context of a liquidating plan. Notably, the Creditors’ Committee opposed the Motion to Appoint Asbestos Committee and Future Claims Representative on the basis of, among other things, that “section 524(g) is not applicable to these chapter 11 cases . . . .” Objection of the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors to the Motion of the Ad Hoc Committee of Asbestos Personal Injury Claimants for an Order (I) Appointing a Legal Representative for Future Asbestos and Personal Injury Claimants and (II) Directing the United States Trustee to Appoint an Official Committee of Asbestos Personal Injury Claimants at 3 (Docket No. 2266).

60. As the Creditors’ Committee appropriately notes in its Objection to the 363 Transaction, section 524(g) relates to discharge of asbestos claims, which plainly is not being sought or even contemplated by the 363 Transaction. To state, as the Creditors’ Committee does, that section 363 sales are “impliedly circumscribed by the existence of section 524(g),” lacks any authoritative support. Indeed, it would require this Court, by implication, to write statutory language that Congress conspicuously did not include in the Bankruptcy Code. The argument serves to highlight the futility of the Committee’s position.

61. Whatever rights present and future asbestos claimants have can be properly addressed in the Debtors’ chapter 11 cases subsequent to the Closing of the 363 Transaction, if approved. Again, it must be noted that these chapter 11 cases are not asbestos-driven, as noted by the Court on June 25, 2009, in connection with the Motion to Appoint Asbestos Committee and Future Claims Representative. The Debtors' projected liabilities for asbestos claims constitute a minute fraction of the total claims to be administered, and the parochial interests of holders of contested asbestos claims should not be permitted to frustrate or otherwise impede a transaction that all parties recognize will maximize value for all economic stakeholders.

62. Notwithstanding the foregoing, to alleviate certain concerns that have been raised on behalf of consumers as to future products liability claims, the MPA has been amended to provide that the Purchaser will expressly assume all products liability claims arising from accidents or other discrete incidents arising from the operation of GM vehicles occurring subsequent to the Closing of the 363 Transaction, regardless of when the product was purchased. Additionally, the Purchaser has confirmed and, to the extent necessary, the MPA will be clarified to reflect, that the Purchaser is assuming all liability under Lemon Laws for additional repairs, refunds, partial refunds, or replacement of a defective vehicle, and for regulatory obligations under such laws, but not punitive, exemplary, special, consequential, or multiple damages or penalties, all as shall be more particularly addressed in any order approving the 363 Transaction. In connection with the foregoing, the Purchaser has agreed to continue addressing Lemon Law claims (to the extent they are assumed) using the same or substantially similar procedural mechanisms previously utilized by the Debtors.

63. In sum, objections asserting that the Purchaser is not entitled to the benefit of successor liability are without merit. Chrysler is directly on point. Its ratio decidendi should be applied. Moreover, and despite having no obligation therefor, the Purchaser has voluntarily agreed to assume certain products liability claims. Such assumptions should significantly alleviate the concern of most objectors.

Plant Closure Objections

64. A result of any sale is that the purchaser may elect to purchase less than all of the assets of the seller. The 363 Transaction is no different. The Debtors have received two informal Objections and one formal Objection by governmental units that challenge the decision by the Purchaser to exclude certain plants from the Purchased Assets. These Objections are summarized on the schedule annexed hereto as Exhibit “D.”

65. These Objections challenge the business judgment of the Debtors in shutting down facilities. Yet it is the decision of the Purchaser which is at issue, not the Debtors. The incontrovertible evidence clearly supports the Debtors’ business judgment in pursuing the 363 Transaction, notwithstanding the exclusion of certain assets from the sale.

66. The Objection by the County of Wayne, Michigan with respect to the exclusion of the Debtors’ Willow Run facility asserts that the 363 Transaction should be reviewed under a heightened scrutiny standard based on the allegation that the Purchaser is an insider. As is clear in the Henderson Affidavit, the Purchaser is not an insider but rather, the entity designated by an arm’s-length lender and negotiator that engaged in good faith negotiations with the Debtors regarding the terms of the 363 Transaction. Moreover, the Debtors have submitted substantial support that the 363 Transaction, even under a heightened scrutiny standard, inextricably leads to one conclusion -- the 363 Transaction must be approved in the interest of economic stakeholders.

Retiree/Splinter Union Objections

67. Like all other objectors to the 363 Transaction, the unions that have filed Objections (the “Objecting Unions”)<sup>14</sup> do not dispute that (i) the 363 Transaction is in the

<sup>14</sup> The Objecting Unions include the IUE-CWA (the “IUE”), the United Steelworkers, and the International Union of Operating Engineers Locals 18S, 101S and 832S. Numerous similar objections have been submitted by other GM

Debtors' best interests; (ii) the 363 Transaction represents the best (and, indeed, the only) available alternative to a liquidation (which, there can be no debate, would offer a far lesser (or even no) recovery for any of the Debtors' general unsecured creditors, including the retirees represented by the Objecting Unions); or (iii) that the 363 Transaction will result in an immediately viable and competitive New GM (saving hundreds of thousands of jobs and the businesses of countless suppliers in the process). Rather, the Objecting Unions' challenge is principally limited to the contention that the treatment of their retirees in the 363 Transaction, as compared to the treatment of the UAW's retirees, is contrary to the requirements of section 1114 of the Bankruptcy Code and otherwise unfair and inequitable.

68. The Debtors are not unsympathetic to the Objecting Unions' concerns and do not seek to minimize the impact of the 363 Transaction and these chapter 11 cases upon the retirees represented by the Objecting Unions (and many others). But the Objection is meritless as a matter of law and fact.

69. The transaction at issue is a sale of assets, not a distribution of proceeds by or from the assets of the Debtors to any creditor or creditor group. No modification of any benefit plans of the Objecting Unions or the retirees they represent are being proposed or effected; and, as a matter of law (including under the Bankruptcy Code), satisfying section 1114 is simply not a precondition to an asset disposition under section 363. Indeed, a section 1114 process in this context would effectively preclude the very expedition that section 363 so clearly permits, and that is an express condition of the MPA. (See, e.g., Debtors Mem. at 7-9 (citing cases)). Moreover, while the Objecting Unions try to pin the blame for their retirees' supposed retirees and representatives thereof (collectively, the "Other Retiree Objections"), as reflected in Exhibit "E." For ease of reference, the Debtors refer herein solely to the Objecting Unions' Objection, but note that their response is equally applicable to (and, thus, also requires the rejection of) the Other Retiree Objections.

disparate treatment (i.e., vis-à-vis the UAW) on the Debtors, the treatment of the UAW's retirees is the result of an agreement entered into between New GM and the UAW. That agreement reflects a business judgment by New GM, which needed the support of the UAW, whereby New GM will provide consideration to the New UAW VEBA (i.e., preferred and common equity in New GM) that does not include any Debtor assets. Such business decisions by the Purchaser do not implicate any rights of the Objecting Unions or their retirees, or contravene any obligation of the Debtors under the Bankruptcy Code. As Judge Gonzalez stated in Chrysler: "In negotiating with those groups essential to its viability, New Chrysler made certain agreements and provided ownership interests in the new entity, which was neither a diversion of value from the Debtors' assets nor an allocation of the proceeds from the sale of the Debtors' assets."<sup>15</sup> In re Chrysler LLC, 405 B.R. 84, 99 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2009), aff'd, No. 09-2311-bk, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 12351 (2d Cir. June 5, 2009).

70. The consideration from the Purchaser to the New UAW VEBA further flows from (i) contractual obligations that are plainly not applicable to the Objecting Unions;<sup>16</sup> and (ii) negotiations principally between the UAW and the U.S. Treasury (as the Purchaser's the UAW, VEBA, and the Treasury are not receiving distributions on account of their prepetition claims. Rather, consideration to these entities is being provided under separately-negotiated agreements with New Chrysler. . . . As part of those negotiations, New Chrysler and the workers have reached agreement on terms of collective bargaining agreements with the UAW. . . . That New Chrysler and the UAW have agreed to fund the VEBA with equity and a note is part of a bargained-for exchange between New Chrysler and the UAW. . . . The consideration provided by New Chrysler in that exchange is not value which would otherwise inure to the benefit of the Debtors' estates.

405 B.R. at 99-100 (emphasis added).

<sup>16</sup> Specifically, by letter agreement dated September 26, 2007 (annexed hereto as Exhibit "M"), GM agreed that "any sale of an operation as an ongoing business would require the buyer to assume the 2007 GM-UAW Collective Bargaining Agreement." No similar obligation applies to the Objecting Unions.

sponsor), which is not a chapter 11 debtor and which is under no obligation to comply with section 1114. The U.S. Treasury's objective is to give New GM the best chance for future success to enable the recovery of its loans and investments as well as enhance the value of the equity interests in the Purchaser. In order to accomplish that goal, it is necessary to obtain the support and to preserve jobs of the UAW and its members (including those who someday will be retirees), who are critical to ongoing operations. In contrast, none of those jobs, by the Objecting Unions' own admission, are held by any of their existing members. The section 1114 rights of the Objecting Unions' retirees, if any, can and should be addressed in connection with the administration of the Debtors' chapter 11 cases subsequent to the Closing of the 363 Transaction. See Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 110 ("[T]he Court finds that if the Sale Motion were not approved, which would likely result in the Debtors' liquidation, there would likely be no value to distribute [to] any retirees, all of whom would be unsecured creditors").<sup>17</sup>

71. As for the Objecting Unions' more general claim of "grossly unfair and inequitable" treatment, none of their benefit plan terms are being modified; and the claims of their retirees are not being compromised, settled or changed in any way by the 363 Transaction. Ironically, however, these retirees have an alternative to simply filing a claim in these chapter 11 cases -- an alternative offered by New GM. Such alternative -- which already has been accepted by several other unions (including the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the

<sup>17</sup> Several of the Other Retiree Objections challenge the Motion insofar as it seeks approval of the New UAW VEBA, which, they contend, does not provide them with commensurate benefits going forward. But the law is clear that such approval, even though the VEBA benefits are not uniformly applicable to all retirees, permissibly avoids the potential loss of all benefits by all retirees. See, e.g., UAW v. Gen. Motors Corp., 2008 WL 2968408, at *24 (E.D. Mich. 2008) (approving settlement because "risk of loss, even if unlikely, would produce consequences too grave that they are worth avoiding through a settlement") (citations omitted); see also UAW v. Chrysler LLC, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 92591, at *68 (E.D. Mich. July 31, 2008) (approving settlement, which reduced certain retiree benefits as a result of Chrysler's financial difficulties, because the potential loss of all benefits due to "Chrysler's financial collapse" would be "far more harsh" for all retirees); IUE-CWA v. Gen. Motors Corp., 238 F.R.D. 583, 595 (E.D. Mich. 2006) (similar). Accordingly, the 363 Transaction should be approved because the alternative is a near certain elimination of all UAW and other retiree benefits.

International Association of Machinists, Carpenters Local 687, Interior Systems Local 1045, and the International Brotherhood of Painters and Allied Trades of the United States and Canada, Sign and Display Union Local 591) (see Henderson Supp. Aff. ¶ 12) -- includes the provision by New GM of healthcare benefits commensurate with the benefits that have been and will be provided to GM's salaried retirees. The Objecting Unions may be unhappy with this offer and are free to reject it, but such unhappiness simply does not give rise to a cognizable objection to the 363 Transaction. One thing is abundantly clear, however -- denying the Motion on these or any other grounds would force the Debtors' immediate liquidation, resulting in limited recovery for even the Debtors' secured creditors and likely no recovery by any of the Company's unsecured creditors, including the retirees whom the Objecting Unions represent.

Workers' Compensation Objections

72. The Debtors have received Objections from two states (Michigan and Ohio) regarding the Purchaser's proposed treatment of workers' compensation claims under the MPA. The Debtors have been engaged in discussions with representatives from these states and believe that the issues set forth in their Objections have been resolved.

Tax Objections

73. The Debtors have received Objections from taxing authorities in various states. The Debtors' reply to these Tax Objections are set forth in the schedule annexed hereto as Exhibit "G."

Lien Creditor Objections

74. Several entities identified in Exhibit "H" (the "Lien Creditor Objectors") claim to hold liens on the Purchased Assets and have filed Objections asserting that the Sale Order improperly seeks to extinguish or otherwise impair their rights with respect to any valid statutory or possessory liens, such as mechanics', carriers', workers', repairers', shippers', marine cargo, construction, toolers', molders', or similar liens (the "Statutory Liens"). The Debtors are not seeking to sell the Purchased Assets free and clear of Statutory Liens under section 363(f) of the Bankruptcy Code

75. After consulting with the Purchaser, the Debtors have agreed to add a provision to the Sale Order to clarify the issue and resolve the Lien Creditor Objections. This provision is as follows:

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Order or the MPA, (a) any Purchased Asset that is subject to any mechanics', carriers', workers', repairers', shippers', marine cargo, construction, toolers', molders', or similar lien or any statutory lien on real and personal property for property taxes not yet due shall continue to be subject to such lien after the Closing Date if and to the extent that such lien (i) is valid, perfected and enforceable as of the Commencement Date (or becomes valid, perfected and enforceable after the Commencement Date as permitted by section 546(b) or 362(b)(18) of the Bankruptcy Code), (ii) could not be avoided by any Debtor under sections 544 to 549, inclusive, of the Bankruptcy Code or otherwise, were the Closing not to occur; and (iii) the Purchased Asset subject to such lien could not be sold free and clear of such lien under applicable non-bankruptcy law, and (b) any Liability as of the Closing Date that is secured by a lien described in clause (a) above (such lien, a "Continuing Lien") that is not otherwise an Assumed Liability shall constitute an Assumed Liability with respect to which there shall be no recourse to the Purchaser or any property of the Purchaser other than recourse to the property subject to such Continuing Lien. The Purchased Assets are sold free and clear of any reclamation rights, provided, however, that nothing, in this Order or the MPA shall in any way impair the right of any claimant against the Debtors with respect to any alleged reclamation right to the extent such reclamation right is not subject to the prior rights of a holder of a security interest in the goods or proceeds with respect to which such reclamation right is alleged, or impair the ability of a claimant to seek adequate protection against the Debtors with respect to any such alleged reclamation right. Further, nothing in this Order or the MPA shall prejudice any rights, defenses, objections or counterclaims that the Debtors, the Purchaser, the U.S. Treasury, EDC, the Creditors' Committee or any other party in interest may have with respect to the validity or priority of such asserted liens or rights, or the type (or amount), if any, of required adequate protection.

76. The Debtors have reached out to the attorneys for the Lien Creditor Objectors to propose the foregoing language in an effort to resolve the Lien Creditor Objections. As of the date hereof, the Lien Creditor Objectors that have responded have indicated that their respective Objections will be resolved if the foregoing language is included in the Sale Order. In any event, the Debtors submit that this language fully addresses the issues raised in the Lien Creditor Objections. As a result, the Debtors request that the Court overrule the Lien Creditor Objections to the extent they are not withdrawn.

Stockholder Objections

77. Much like a vast majority of the Bondholder Objections, the approximately 18 Objections interposed by GM's equity interest holders largely are not substantive.

78. The objecting equity interest holders claim that they are being treated unfairly compared with other stakeholders. There is no basis for such argument. The purpose of a sale of substantially all of a debtor's assets pursuant to section 363(b) of the Bankruptcy Code is to "transform assets . . . into cash in an effort to maximize value." In re Trans World Airlines, Inc., 2001 Bankr. LEXIS 980, at *31-32 (Bankr. D. Del. Apr. 2, 2001). The value generated by a sale pursuant to section 363(b) will be distributed in accordance with the absolute priority distribution scheme set forth in section 1129(b)(2)(B)(ii) of the Bankruptcy Code, in which creditors must be paid in full before equity interest holders receive any recovery. See In re Iridium Operating LLC, 478 F.3d 452, 463 (2d Cir. 2007) (quoting N. Pac. R.R. Co. v. Boyd, 228 U.S. 482, 504 (1913)). Therefore, the inability to receive a recovery on account of their shares absent full payment to the unsecured creditors, including the bondholders, cannot be the basis of a sustainable objection to the 363 Transaction.

Cure Objections

79. At the outset of the 363 Transaction process, the Debtors established detailed procedures to address proactively the issues that are bound to arise in connection with the assumption and assignment of over 700,000 executory contracts and unexpired leases of personal and nonresidential real property (the “Contracts”) in an organization as large and complex as GM. At the center of these efforts is a call center in Warren, Michigan (the “Call Center”), which is staffed by purchasing personnel employed by the Debtors, representatives from Alix Partners, in-house counsel, and outside counsel. The Call Center operates and responds to inquiries 24 hours a day.

80. In addition, the Debtors established for the benefit of Contract counterparties an interactive website (the “Website”) that provides current information regarding the status of assumption and assignment of Contracts, detailed information on cure amounts, and other pertinent information. The Website is updated as cure disputes, whether in the form of informal inquiries or formal objections, are resolved.

81. The approximately 550 Cure Objections, including reservations of rights filed by Contract counterparties in connection with the 363 Transaction, actually represents a very small percentage of the Contracts being assumed and assigned to the Purchaser. This is a tribute to the efforts and resources expended by the Debtors to ensure a smooth 363 Transaction.

82. The Debtors have continued to address the Cure Objections and are confident that virtually all of these Objections either will be resolved or relegated to simple cure reconciliation issues by the Sale Hearing. A schedule identifying the Cure Objections is annexed hereto as Exhibit “J.” Prior to the Sale Hearing, the Debtors intend to file with the Court an updated schedule setting forth the then-current status of the Cure Objections.

83. Many of the Cure Objections raise concerns regarding the treatment of claims for amounts that have or will become due after the Commencement Date but prior to the Closing of the 363 Transaction. For the avoidance of doubt, the Debtors intend to modify the proposed Sale Order to clarify that the Purchaser will assume, and pay in the ordinary course of business and as they come due, all amounts for postpetition goods delivered and services provided to the Debtors under each Purchased Contract to the extent due and payable and not otherwise paid by the Debtors.

84. In short, a significant number of Cure Objections already have been resolved, and the remainder do not constitute impediments to approval of the 363 Transaction. The Sale Procedures provide that Contracts may be assumed and assigned notwithstanding ongoing cure disputes with Contract counterparties, with such disputes being resolved post-Closing. If the Cure Objections cannot be resolved on a business level, the disputes will be resolved either in this Court or pursuant to binding arbitration as agreed to between the Debtors and such Contract counterparty under a Court-approved Trade Agreement. Accordingly, to the extent a Cure Objection is styled as an Objection to the Motion, it is improper and should be overruled.

Miscellaneous Objections

85. The Creditors' Committee. The Creditors' Committee's assertion that the Purchaser must make adequate provision for the payment of all costs and expenses associated with administering the chapter 11 cases subsequent to the Closing of the 363 Transaction is completely unsupportable. Notably, the Creditors' Committee cites no applicable legal authority for its novel position, because none exists. Neither section 363 nor section 506(c) of the Bankruptcy Code requires either a secured creditor or a purchaser to fund such expenses in connection with a sale under section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code. Moreover, the Creditors'

Committee's assertion that a "recovery [was] promised to them under the terms of the Sale" (Creditors' Committee Obj. at 24) is patently untrue.

86. What is true, however, is that consummation of the 363 Transaction will avoid the draconian consequences to unsecured creditors and other stakeholders that the Creditors' Committee recognizes will ensue if the 363 Transaction is not pursued. What also is true is that the Purchaser has voluntarily agreed to fund not less than $950,000,000 to the Debtors' estates post-Closing, which currently is believed to be adequate to fund the projected costs and expenses attendant to the confirmation of a liquidating chapter 11 plan for the Debtors.

87. White Marsh and Memphis Facilities. Among the assets to be sold in the 363 Transaction are the Debtors' interest in two commercial facilities -- located in White Marsh, Maryland and Memphis, Tennessee -- the acquisition of which was financed by a group of secured lenders (the "White Marsh/Memphis Lenders"). In their Objection to the Motion, these lenders do not dispute that the Debtors own and are entitled to sell these facilities (WM/M Obj. ¶¶ 1, 5-6). Rather, they argue that section 363(f)(3) of the Bankruptcy Code prevents the Debtors from selling the two facilities free and clear of the lenders' first priority liens unless the lenders are paid the face amount of their liens in full, in cash, at closing, regardless of the value of the facilities that constitute their collateral (Id. ¶¶ 12-14).<sup>18</sup> They also argue that their interest is not adequately protected. However, they will have more than adequate protection through a replacement lien on a portion of the consideration being provided by the Purchaser consisting of shares in New GM valued at $3.8-4.8 billion (or some 40 to 160 times the value of the interest the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders assert). Their argument is unsound and based on a

<sup>18</sup> Section 363(f)(3) provides that "[t]he trustee may sell property... free and clear of any interest in such property of an entity other than the estate, only if... such interest is a lien and the price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property" (emphasis added).

misreading of section 363(f)(3) – but in any event, it provides no basis to frustrate the 363 Transaction. The Court can hold a post-sale hearing to determine the value of the objectors’ lien and the assets of the Debtors’ estates to which that lien should attach.

88. The White Marsh/Memphis Lenders argue that the two facilities cannot be sold “free and clear” of the existing liens unless the lenders receive a replacement lien equal to the face amount of such liens. That is not the case. On its face, section 363(f)(3) refers to “the aggregate value of all liens,” 11 U.S.C. § 363(f)(3)(emphasis added), – not the “aggregate amount of all liens.” If Congress had intended the latter, it would have used such term. It did not.

89. Consistent with this reading, this Court has repeatedly held that the “aggregate value of all liens” contained in section 363(f)(3) does not refer to the face amount of the liens, but rather to the actual value of the related collateral.<sup>19</sup> See, e.g., In re Beker Indus. Corp., 63 B.R. 474, 475-76 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1986) (holding that the Bankruptcy Code “plainly indicate[s] that the term ‘value’ [as used in sections 506(a) and 363(f)(3)] means its actual value as determined by the Court, as distinguished from the amount of the lien”);<sup>20</sup> In re Bygaph, Inc., 56 B.R. 596, 606 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1986) (authorizing sale of property subject to a lien after reviewing the “sharply disputed” value of the collateral); cf. In re Chrysler LLC, 405 B.R. at 98 (authorizing section 363 sale because, among other reasons, the liquidation value of the collateral was lower than the sale price and “[t]he full value of the collateral will be distributed to the [secured lenders]”) (emphasis added).

<sup>19</sup> This reading of section 363(f)(3) is consistent with the Supreme Court’s holdings that: (i) the “value” of a “creditor’s interest” under section 506(a) means “the value of the collateral” (United Sav. Ass’n v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Assocs., 484 U.S. 365, 372 (1988); see also LNC Invs., Inc. v. First Fidelity Bank, 247 B.R. 38, 44 (S.D.N.Y. 2000)); and (ii) “the ‘proposed disposition or use’ of the collateral is of paramount importance to the valuation question” (Assocs. Commercial Corp. v. Rash, 520 U.S. 953, 962 (1997) (internal citations omitted)).

<sup>20</sup> Ironically, the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders rely on Beker for their section 363(f)(5) arguments (WM/M Obj. ¶ 17), but utterly ignore Beker’s primary holding that section 363(f)(3) “is to be interpreted to mean what it says: the price must be equal to or greater than the aggregate value of the liens asserted against it, not their amount.” 63 B.R. at 476 (emphasis added).

90. Numerous other courts have followed Beker, recognizing that the objectors’ proposed “face amount of the lien” interpretation of § 363(f)(3) “ignores the [Bankruptcy] Code’s focus on protecting the value of collateral” and impermissibly allows an “undersecured creditor to obstinately block an otherwise sensible sale.” In re Terrace Gardens Park P’ship, 96 B.R. 707, 712 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 1989); see also In re Oneida Lake Dev., Inc., 114 B.R. 352, 356-57 (Bankr. N.D.N.Y. 1990) (holding that section 363(f)(3) requires “that the secured creditor receives only the value of its secured claim in debtor’s property, even though that may be significantly less than the face amount of the claim”) (emphasis added); In re WPRV-TV, Inc., 143 B.R. 315, 319, 320 n.14 (D.P.R. 1991) (the “face amount” approach has been “highly criticized” and is “unduly strict,” and citing Beker as the “better reasoned view”), vacated on other grounds, 165 B.R. 1 (D.P.R. 1992), aff’d in part, rev’d in part on other grounds, 983 F.2d 336 (1st Cir. 1993).<sup>21</sup>

91. Moreover, the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders’ interpretation of section 363(f)(3) would enable vastly undersecured creditors to hold up asset sales that provide enormous value to a debtor’s estate unless they are paid in full – even on the unsecured portion of their claim.<sup>22</sup> An interpretation that results in secured creditors insisting on and receiving such a windfall is illogical and runs counter to the entire framework of the Bankruptcy Code, which compensates secured creditors for the value of their collateral. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. §§ 506(a)(1), 1129(b)(2)(A) – as well as § 363(f)(3) itself.<sup>23</sup> In short, the Debtors clearly have met their burden of proving that section 363(f)(3) permits a “free and clear” sale of the White Marsh and Memphis facilities.<sup>24</sup> Moreover, the dispute over the amount of the liens to which the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders should be entitled as adequate protection should in no way interfere with the 363 Transaction. The amount, timing and form of protection can be readily established in a subsequent valuation proceeding and order, if necessary. The Debtors are not attempting to deny the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders the value to which their collateral entitles them.

<sup>21</sup> Although there are cases – which the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders cite – that support the “face amount of the lien” interpretation, the weight of authority, particularly of courts that have analyzed the issue in detail, supports the Debtors’ “actual value” interpretation. For example, the court in In re Collins, 180 B.R. 447, 450 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1995), undertook an in-depth analysis of the two viewpoints and concluded that the Debtors’ interpretation “provides a better reasoned solution to this dilemma.” In contrast, the sole case in this district to which the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders cite, In re General Bearing Corp., is not persuasive. 136 B.R. 361 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1992). The parties there did not even raise the issue of section 363(f)(3). Id. at 366. Thus, the Court there, lacking proper briefing on this issue, did not acknowledge that other courts had interpreted section 363(f)(3) in a contrary manner. Indeed, the Debtors respectfully note that the General Bearing Court inexplicably cited Beker and Oneida – cases that explicitly reject the “face amount” interpretation – as supporting such interpretation (id.), thus confirming that General Bearing should not be followed.

92. The White Marsh/Memphis Lenders are More than Adequately Protected Under Sections 361 and 363 of the Bankruptcy Code. The White Marsh/Memphis Lenders’ further assertions that the replacement lien in sale proceeds is inadequate to provide them adequate protection should be rejected. The case law is uniform that the adequate protection to which secured creditors are entitled when their collateral is sold “free and clear” of liens in a section 363 sale is a replacement lien on the “proceeds” of the sale. See, e.g., In re Collins, 180

<sup>22</sup> Section 506(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that “[a]n allowed claim of a creditor secured by a lien on property in which the estate has an interest . . . is a secured claim to the extent of the value of such creditor’s interest in the estate’s interest in such property . . . and is an unsecured claim to the extent that the value of such creditor’s interest . . . is less than the amount of such allowed claim” (emphasis added).

<sup>23</sup> See also In re Broomall Printing Corp., 131 B.R. 32, 37 (Bankr. D. Md. 1991) – a case cited by the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders (WM/M Obj. ¶ 23) – holding that “[t]he only collateral values a debtor possesses to pay a secured claim are the proceeds which may be realized from the sale of the collateral. If a debtor pays to a secured creditor more than the proceeds realized from the sale of the collateral, then of necessity the debtor will have made the payments from sources that otherwise would have been available for other creditors or for the debtor’s rehabilitation. This result would not constitute equitable treatment of creditors...”.

<sup>24</sup> Because the Debtors have demonstrated that section 363(f)(3) clearly supports a sale of the two properties free and clear of all existing liens, there is no need to address the lenders’ arguments that section 363(f)(5) does not apply, notwithstanding that their claim plainly is one to be satisfied by a money judgment (see WM/M Obj. ¶¶ 15-17).

B.R. 447, 452 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1995); WPRV-TV, 143 B.R. at 321 (“The legislative history makes clear that ‘the most common form of adequate protection will be to have the interest attach to the proceeds of the sale’”) (citation omitted); In re Brileya, 108 B.R. 444, 446 (Bankr. D. Vt. 1989) (citing H.R. Rep. No. 95-595, 95th Cong., 1st Sess. 345-46 (1977), and S. Rep. No. 95-989, 95th Cong., 2d Sess. 55 (1978)) (adequate protection is achieved by attaching those interests which are “free and clear” to the proceeds of the sale). Thus, contrary to the Lenders’ assertions, the Bankruptcy Code and case law do not require that proceeds of the sale must be cash, or that the replacement lien must be a lien on cash proceeds – and they also do not require that the proceeds to which the replacement lien attaches be distributed to the secured creditors prior to the effective date of a chapter 11 plan. WM/M Obj. ¶ 25.

93. First, a secured creditor’s right to adequate protection “is limited to the lesser of the value of the collateral or the amount of the secured claim.” Bygaph, 56 B.R. at 606. See also In re Dairy Mart Convenience Stores, Inc., 351 F.3d 86, 90-91 (2d Cir. 2003) (holding that the value of the replacement lien must be determined under section 506(a)); In re Winthrop Old Farm Nurseries, Inc., 50 F.3d 72, 74 (1st Cir. 1995) (“[V]aluation for section 361 purposes necessarily looks to section 506(a) for a determination of the amount of a secured claim.”). And it is the secured creditor that bears “the burden of proof under § 363(o)(2) to establish the extent of its interest, i.e., the value of the collateral.” Bygaph, 56 B.R. at 606.

94. Second, “adequate protection” entitles a secured creditor to realize the equivalent of its collateral, “only upon completion of the reorganization.” Timbers, 484 U.S. at 377. See also LNC, 247 B.R. at 45.

95. Third, contrary to the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders’ assertions, courts have found that security interests in equity (such as stock) indeed can constitute “adequate protection” in the context of a section 363 sale and there is no proscription of such form of protection. The Bankruptcy Code “confers upon ‘the parties and the courts flexibility’” and discretion in fashioning the adequate protection relief. In re 495 Cent. Park Ave. Corp., 136 B.R. 626, 631 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1992) (citation omitted); Dairy Mart, 351 F.3d at 90 (courts can grant adequate protection in the form of “cash payments, a lien, or ... ‘other relief’”) (citation omitted). See also In re Westpoint Stevens, Inc. 333 B.R. 30 (S.D.N.Y. 2005) (adequate protection provided in the form of securities, though prohibiting premature allocation and distribution of same); Chrysler, 405 B.R. at 98 (“The Westpoint court, however, recognized that, pursuant to section 363, a bankruptcy court had authority to authorize a sale of assets in exchange for stock and the granting of replacement liens.”).

96. The only case cited by the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders on this issue does not support their assertion that, per se, “a security interest in equity does not constitute adequate protection” for a lienholder. WM/M Obj. ¶ 26. To the contrary, the court in In re TM Monroe Manor Assocs., 140 B.R. 298 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1991), extensively cited to In re San Felipe @ Voss, Ltd., 115 B.R. 526, 529 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 1990), and noted that in San Felipe, the debtor proposed to offer a secured creditor equity securities in a third-party purchaser as the indubitable equivalent of the creditor’s claim. The court confirmed the plan, reasoning that while the use of equity securities in the reorganized debtor was not contemplated in the Bankruptcy Code, the use in cramdown of equity securities in a third-party purchaser was not prohibited as long as the securities at issue were stable and there was a substantial equity cushion in the offered stock.

TM Monroe, 140 B.R. at 300 (emphasis provided by the court). This is precisely what the Debtors have offered to the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders here.

97. The Debtors here have met their burden of proving that the proposed adequate protection is sufficient. Specifically, the Worth Declaration establishes the value of

New GM shares that the Debtors are receiving as proceeds at $3.8 billion to $4.8 billion, while the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders' asserted claim is $90 million. In contrast, the White Marsh/Memphis Lenders have provided no evidence that such valuation is inaccurate or inadequate and rely instead on baseless ipse dixit assertions that a replacement lien on "equity in a newly-formed non-public entity does not adequately protect" the lenders. WM/M Obj. ¶ 25. rs

98. In sum, the objecting Lenders' interests are more than adequately protected. The Court should authorize the sale of the properties free and clear of existing liens

99. The White Marsh/Memphis Lenders' argument that the proposed sale frustrates their right to credit bid their secured claims (WM/M Obj. ¶ 19) is unavailing. Bankruptcy courts have broad discretion to establish bidding procedures. See In re Fin. News Network, Inc., 980 F.2d 165, 170 (2d Cir. 1992) (finding the bankruptcy bidding process was fair and noting that "[t]here are cases where the bankruptcy court's discretion must be sufficiently broad so that in making its decision it can compass [any] competing considerations as best as it can"); In re Big Rivers Elec. Corp., 213 B.R. 962, 976-77 (Bankr. W.D. Ky. 1997) ("[h]ere the Court had broad discretion with regard to ordering the bidding process . . . . The Bankruptcy Court has a duty to maximize the value of the estate"). The Court here properly determined that to maximize value for the Debtors' estates, only bids for all or substantially all of the Debtors' assets would be qualified.

100. Toyota. The limited objection filed by Toyota Motor Corporation ("Toyota") is not an objection to the 363 Transaction, but rather an objection to the assumption and assignment of certain contracts between the Debtors and Toyota without Toyota's consent. The Debtors are willing to delay the assumption and assignment of any contracts with Toyota until a later date, and in the absence of a consensual resolution, will ask the Court to determine the substance of this Objection as it relates to any contracts with Toyota the Debtors are seeking to assume and assign to the Purchaser. As such, the Court need not determine the merits of this Objection prior to approval of the 363 Transaction.

101. GMAC. GMAC LLC (“GMAC”) supports the 363 Transaction, but has filed a reservation of rights. On June 1, 2009, the Court entered an Order authorizing the Debtors to enter into and approving that certain ratification agreement (the “Ratification Agreement”) between the Debtors and GMAC. The Ratification Agreement authorized the Debtors to continue their prepetition financial and operating agreements and arrangements (the “Operating Documents”) with GMAC, pending the assumption and assignment to the Purchaser of the Operative Documents pursuant to the Motion. The Ratification Agreement further provides that the Purchaser is to assume and perform the Debtors’ obligations under the Operative Documents in accordance with the terms thereof. GMAC consents to and supports the 363 Transaction, but has reserved its rights to object to the 363 Transaction to the extent that certain undisclosed schedules to the MPA do not comply with the requirements of the Ratification Agreement.

WHEREFORE the Objections should be overruled and the Debtors' request for approval of the 363 Transaction be granted, together with such other and further relief as is just.

1969	Unofficial Committee of Family & Dissident GM Bondholders	The 363 Transaction should be pursued in the context of a chapter 11 plan of reorganization. The Debtors are not exercising sound business judgment in pursuing the 363 Transaction. The 363 Transaction constitutes a sub rosa plan that cannot be approved under section 363(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.	In the context of these chapter 11 cases involving the fragile business at issue, there is a business justification for the sale of substantially all the Debtors' assets at this early stage. It cannot be disputed that the only purchaser who has come forward to purchase substantially all of the Debtors' assets is only willing to do so in the context of an expedited 363 Transaction. Faced with a choice between implementing the 363 Transaction -- and thereby preserving and maximizing the value of GM's business and saving hundreds of thousands of automotive-related jobs -- versus liquidating the Debtors' assets, the Debtors' Board of Directors undoubtedly exercised sound business judgment in proceeding with the 363 Transaction.

Docket No.	Name of Objector	Summary of Objection	Response
(con't)  1969	(con't)  Unofficial Committee of Family & Dissident GM Bondholders	(con't)  The 363 Transaction should be pursued in the context of a chapter 11 plan of reorganization.  The Debtors are not exercising sound business judgment in pursuing the 363 Transaction.  The 363 Transaction constitutes a sub rosa plan that cannot be approved under section 363(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.	(con't)  The 363 Transaction is a value-preserving and value-maximizing transaction that is the product of arm's-length, good-faith negotiations. The consideration the Debtors are receiving in connection with the 363 Transaction is fair value for the assets being sold.  The sale in no way effects any distribution of the Debtors' property to creditors, nor does it in any way impinge on any plan that necessarily will follow. Indeed, there is no distribution of estate assets or proceeds from the 363 Transaction (if approved) to any creditors.  The Purchaser -- not the Debtors -- has determined the New GM's ownership composition and capital structure outside of the bankruptcy context . The allocation of ownership interests by Purchaser in New GM is neither a distribution of estate assets nor an allocation of proceeds from the sale of the Debtors' assets.

Docket No.	Name of Objector	Summary of Objection	Response
1985	Maurice F. Curran	The 363 Transaction does not provide an equitable result to bondholders as compared to other GM stakeholders. The Debtors are circumventing and abusing the chapter 11 process and Due Process Clause.	See above response (to Docket No. 1969).
1989	Angela Urquhart and Glen Urquhart, and Glen Urquhart as Trustee	Joins and adopts the Objection of the Unofficial Committee of Family and Dissident Bondholders. See Docket No. 1969.	See above response (to Docket No. 1969).
1993	Angela Urquhart and Glen Urquhart, and Glen Urquhart as Trustee	The Debtors are circumventing and abusing the chapter 11 process and Due Process Clause by involving the United States government so heavily in the 363 sale. Debtors' treatment of non-institutional bondholders violates the Due Process Clause.	See above response (to Docket No. 1969).
2004	Nettie McClinton	The 363 Transaction does not provide an equitable result to bondholders as compared to other GM stakeholders.	See above response (to Docket No. 1969).

1698	Richland County, Ohio	Seeks a modification to the Sale Order that would require the Debtors to continue operating the General Motors Stamping Plant in Ontario, Ohio through December 2010. Raises “an issue of equity,” essentially claiming that a history of tax abatements and other concessions or contributions by local county and municipal authorities justify the request for a delay in the closing of the stamping plant.	Richland County’s objection does not constitute a proper objection to the Motion, as it relates to issues not before the Court. To the extent Richland County is seeking to compel the Purchaser to purchase the stamping plant, the Purchaser’s business judgment is not at issue and there is no precedent in case law or otherwise permitting the Court to mandate the Purchaser to purchase particular assets from the estate. To the extent Richland County is seeking to compel Old GM to continue operating the stamping plant, the request is not related to the Motion, and entry of the Sale Order will not impair any right Richland County may have to seek such relief. In any event, the business judgment standard protects the Debtors’ determination as to whether to continue operating an estate asset.

To the extent Wayne County is seeking to compel the Purchaser to purchase the Ypsilanti plant, the Purchaser's business judgment is not at issue and there is no precedent in case law or otherwise permitting the Court to mandate the Purchaser to purchase particular assets from the estate. In any event, the business judgment standard protects the Debtors' determination as to whether to continue operating an estate asset. Moreover, heightened scrutiny of the Debtors' business judgment is not warranted because the U.S. Treasury is not an insider. Docket No.	Name of Objector	Summary of Objection	Response
1020	Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Linhart	The 363 Transaction and UAW retiree settlement do not treat all retirees equitably.	The law is clear that the New UAW VEBA, even though the benefits thereunder are not uniformly applicable to all GM retirees, permissibly avoids the potential loss of all benefits for all retirees. See, e.g., UAW v. Gen. Motors Corp., 2008 WL 2968408, at *24 (E.D. Mich. 2008). The Motion thus should be approved because the alternative is a near certain elimination of all UAW and other retiree benefits. Moreover, the objection does not provide a basis for finding that the modifications negotiated in good faith by New GM and the UAW are not valid and binding upon all union member-retirees. Specifically, section 1114(c)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code authorizes the UAW, as the authorized representative of its retirees, to negotiate any modification of benefits conferred under its collective bargaining agreement. See also below response (to Docket No. 1941) and Debtors' (i) Objections to Application and (ii) Rebuttal to Reply of General Motors Retirees Association for the Appointment of a Retirees Committee Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1114(d) [Docket Nos. 1901 and 2457].

1941	IUE-CWA, United Steelworkers and International Union of Operating Engineers Locals 18S, 101S and 832S	The Debtors have violated section 1114 of the Bankruptcy Code by affording retirees covered by the New UAW VEBA certain benefits and protections that allegedly have been denied to the retirees represented by these objecting unions. The 363 Transaction otherwise treats the retirees represented by these objecting unions unfairly and inequitably, particularly vis-à-vis the retirees represented by the UAW.	The transaction at issue is a sale of assets, not the distribution of proceeds by or from the assets of the Debtors to any creditor or creditor group; no modifications of any benefits plans of the Objecting Unions or their retirees are being proposed or effected; and, as a matter of law (including under the Bankruptcy Code), satisfying section 1114 is simply not a pre-condition to an asset disposition under section 363. Moreover, the treatment of the UAW's retirees is the result of an agreement entered into between New GM (not the Debtors) and the UAW. That agreement reflects a business judgment by New GM, whereby New GM will provide consideration to the New UAW VEBA that does not include any Debtor assets. Such business decisions by the Purchaser, which is not a chapter 11 debtor and which is under no obligation to comply with section 1114, do not implicate any rights of the objecting unions or their retirees or contravene any obligation of the Debtors. See also Omnibus Reply relating to Retiree/Splinter Union Objection and above response (to Docket No. 1020).

Docket No.	Name of Objector	Summary of Objection	Response
1052	Texas Comptroller	Taxes at Issue: sales taxes, franchise taxes, and sales and use taxes. Tax Periods: not specified. (1) The MPA Section 1.2 currently defines Permitted Encumbrances to include, in part, liens for Taxes, (i) the validity or amount of which is being contested in good faith and (ii) for which appropriate reserves have been established. Since the Texas Comptroller is unaware what reserves have been established or whether such reserves are “adequate,” the Texas Comptroller requests to confirm whether its tax liens will be treated as Permitted Encumbrances under the MPA. (2) To the extent not treated as Permitted Encumbrances, other adequate protection shall be provided under sections 363(c) and (e) of the Bankruptcy Code. (3) The MPA Section 2.3(a)(v) provides that the Assumed Liabilities include all prepetition Liabilities of Sellers to the extent approved by the Bankruptcy Court for payment by Sellers pursuant to a Final Order. The Texas Comptroller requests to clarify (i) whether the secured tax claims at issue are assumed by the	(1) The definition of Permitted Encumbrances will be amended to include only statutory liens for current taxes not yet due, payable or delinquent (or which may be paid without interest or penalties). Therefore, to the extent that the taxes at issue are not yet due, payable or delinquent, the liens for such taxes will remain intact as Permitted Encumbrances. (2) The tax liens will be retained as attached either to the Excluded Assets or to the sales proceeds of the collateral. (3) If further clarification is necessary, the Sale Order will be supplemented to clarify that, pursuant to Section 2.3(a)(v) of the MPA, the Purchaser will assume (i) all prepetition real and personal property taxes (whether related to Purchased Assets or Excluded Assets), (ii) all prepetition franchise and income taxes and (iii) all

Since the Purchaser will acquire all tax refund claims of the Debtors under the MPA, the Sale Order may be interpreted as preventing a tax authority from offsetting any prepetition tax liabilities against any tax refund to be assigned to the Purchaser. The Texas Comptroller requests that the relief requests under the Motion be denied to the extent that such requests would abrogate tax creditors' setoff rights. (5) Paragraph 39 of the Sale Order contains a provision that "no law of any state or other jurisdiction ... shall apply in any way to the transactions contemplated by the 363 Transaction, the MPA, the Motion and this Order." This Paragraph may render relevant state tax laws inapplicable with respect to the 363 Transaction. The Texas Comptroller requests that this Paragraph be revised so as not to repeal or abrogate state tax laws with respect to the 363 Transaction.	prepetition excise, gross receipt, sales and use taxes. (4) The Sale Order will be revised to provide that a relevant taxing authority's ability to exercise its right to setoff shall be preserved to the extent allowed under section 553 of the Bankruptcy Code. (5) The Sale Order will be revised to add a proviso to Paragraph 39 that: provided however, the Debtors shall comply with their tax payment obligations under 28 U.S.C. § 960 except to the extent that the Purchaser, pursuant to the MPA, assumes the applicable liabilities.

Docket No.	Name of Objector	Summary of Objection	Response
2018	White Marsh/ Memphis Lenders	The White Marsh/Memphis Lenders, creditors with a security interests certain facilities, do not oppose the sale, but argue that (i) the Debtors cannot sell the facilities to the Purchaser free and clear of the lenders' security interests without fully satisfying the claims of those lenders under section 363(f)(3), (ii) the lenders must be provided an opportunity to credit bid, and (iii) a replacement lien in the proceeds of the sale, equity interests in the Purchaser, does not adequately protect the lenders' interests.	The Debtors' response to this objection is set forth at length in the Reply.
2052	Toyota Motor Corporation	Toyota Motor Corporation (" Toyota ") asserts that the Debtors cannot assign certain contracts between the Debtors and Toyota to the Purchaser without Toyota's consent.	Toyota is not objecting to the sale, but is objecting to the assumption and assignment of certain contracts between the Debtors and Toyota without Toyota's consent. The Debtors are willing to delay the assumption and assignment of any contracts with Toyota until a later date. In the meantime, the Debtors will negotiate with Toyota in an attempt to reach a consensual resolution as to the assumption and assignment of the Toyota contracts. In the absence of a consensual resolution, the Debtors will ask the Court to determine the substance of the Toyota Objection as it relates to any contracts the Debtors are seeking to assume and assign to the Purchaser. As such, the Court need not determine the merits of the Toyota Objection prior to entering the Sale Approval Order.

Docket No.	Name of Objector	Summary of Objection	Response
2056	GMAC LLC	On June 1, 2009, the Court entered an Order authorizing the Debtors to enter into and approving that certain ratification agreement (the “Ratification Agreement”) between the Debtors and GMAC LLC (“GMAC”). The Ratification Agreement authorized the Debtors to continue their prepetition financial and operating agreements and arrangements (the “Operative Documents”) with GMAC, pending the assumption and assignment to the Purchaser of the Operative Documents pursuant to the Sale Motion. The Ratification Agreement further provides that the Purchaser is to assume and perform the Debtors’ obligations under the Operative Documents in accordance with the terms thereunder. GMAC consents to and supports the Sale but has reserved its rights to object to the Sale to the extent that certain undisclosed schedules to the MPA do not comply with the requirements of the Ratification Agreement.	The Debtors are in the process of resolving GMAC’s reservation of rights and do not anticipate GMAC objecting to the Sale.

NADA Statement on GM's Revised Participation Agreement

McLean, Va. (June 8, 2009) -- The National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA) has reviewed and supports GM's amendments to the Participation Letter Agreement. We're especially pleased that GM moved so quickly to meet with NADA and the GM National Dealer Council on such short notice to review and to discuss the serious concerns that dealers had with the original agreement.

"I especially commend GM for its flexibility and its willingness to make substantive clarifications and modifications to address dealer concerns. We believe GM has made a very good faith effort, given the unprecedented circumstances facing GM and the industry," said NADA chairman John McEleney.

While NADA is not in a position to formally endorse the Participation Agreement, we believe the revised document addresses the majority of dealer concerns.

Dear Mr. Rapson:

During these negotiations, the Union requested the Corporation to agree that any sale of an operation as an ongoing business would require the buyer to assume the 2007 GM-UAW Collective Bargaining Agreement. The Corporation agreed to do so in the case of any such sale during the term of the 2007 Agreement.

Very truly yours,
